To bring residents together

Farmer's mart envisioned for city

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

The vacant parking lot surrounding the Romulus Civic Center may become a place of citizen activity every Saturday this summer.

Romulus Mayor Pro Tem Beverly McAnally said she soon will propose the establishment of the "Romulus Farmer's Mart" to give people from throughout the area a chance to get together and to give farmers and artisans a chance to sell their wares.

"There's no place in this community where people come together," Mrs. McAnally said. "Everyone revolves in their own social circles, which may center around politics or around a social club or a civic group, but few of the circles intertwine."

"I'M AFRAID there are people who will leave Romulus who won't know other residents from the community because of the way it's split up," she added. "And that's a real shame. 'This city needs something to get everyone together.'"

Mrs. McAnally has set a tentative July 12 deadline for establishing a farmer's market on the city hall grounds.

"I visualize a row of trucks from which farmers, who have paid a small fee to participate, sell their products to citizens from Romulus and other cities," she said. "It will give Romulus residents a chance to get together on Saturday mornings, farmers a chance to sell their wares and others who have something to offer a market place to present it."

"WHEN IT matures, I can see the mart as a place not only to get good buys on food, but also an area where senior citizen clubs can display and sell their handicrafts and painters and artisans can display their wares."

"This won't be a giant flea market, but will be a place where area residents can obtain some good produce buys and can purchase some good original handicrafts made by local artists."

The mayor pro tem added: "The nature of the place will generate enthusiasm in and around Romulus, which I hope will keep the mart going."

The first step in developing the plan will be obtaining a $500 "downpayment" on the project.

"I INTEND to ask the council for the money, on the assumption that it will be paid back by licensing fees," Mrs. McAnally said. "I visualize those using the area to sell their wares paying possibly a $5 daily fee to set-up."

And that money will be used to pay back the original $500 and then to maintain the area.

"Anything left over at the end of the year will be used to develop the area for the next year and to improve it."

Although she says "everyone wants to claim they invented the wheel" Mrs. McAnally modestly pointed out that her farmer's mart idea wasn't an original one.

"IT WAS USED in Pontiac last year," she said. "The news media declared the idea a success and it will be expanded this year to not only include a weekend, but also two or three other days a week."

"Romulus' version could be just as good, because the city has room for possibly as many as 60 vendors in the parking lot," she said. "Those will attract people and the people will attract others interested in the concept."

"It will serve as a good forum for civic groups, such as the Eager Beaver Parents, the Jaycees or the Kiwanians to promote their organizations. 'The area could become a hub of weekend activity throughout the summer.'"

Budget to insure Romulus growth

The Romulus City Council has adopted a $4.36 million budget that will "insure growth in the community" as perceived by Mayor Terry L. Troutt.

The council voted 5-2 to approve the budget and 6-1, to set the city's millage rate at nine for fiscal 1974-75, while reducing the water and sewer bond millage from seven to three.

Troutt's proposal defrayed sewer bonding costs for one year and transferred the funds — more than $810,000 this year — into the city's general fund by raising the millage from five last year to nine this year.

SEWER BONDING payment costs will be defrayed this year alone by using surplus funds left over from previous years' budgets and by using escrow money returned to Romulus by Wayne County.

"What the city ends up with is a budget which shows great capital improvements," Troutt said. "I'm proud of this city council for its diligence and understanding in trying to provide improved services the city needs."

"Romulus' council could have passed a politically 'safe' budget and cut expenditures by $34,000 this year, but it would have meant no improvement in services."

"This budget will insure growth in parks, road paving, street protection and in department of public works services."

INCLUDED IN the budget was $500,000 for road improvements, $189,000 for capital improvement, $250,000 for parks and $112,000 for improved sheriff's services.

Troutt said the road improvement funds will be used to continue a road paving program started this year, established to pave 21 miles of roads at a cost in excess of $2 million.

The park funds will be used to purchase and develop two more eight-acre recreational areas in the city.

Troutt already has set aside a 20 acre park at Henry Ruff and Beverly Road for a recreational area and the city is working on plans with the Romulus Community Schools to develop eight acres behind the Merriman Elementary School.

THE POLICE protection funds will be used for hiring two full-time detectives and one full-time juvenile officer.

The remaining funds will be used for the purchase of a new road grader, a backhoe, an asphalt roller, three dump trucks and lawnmowers.

"The city's department of public works has been criticized for the services it offers," Troutt said. "But the citizens can't blame that on the men."

"If they don't have the equipment to perform the job, and they didn't until this budget, then they can't perform the way the citizens would like."

City employees to gain raises in new budget

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of The Roman Staff

The city budget adopted by the Romulus City Council includes more than $27,400 in increased expenditures for 17 non-union administrative personnel.

"The money is set aside to bring these personnel up to a professional pay level," Mayor Terry L. Troutt said. "The people of this community demand expert services, but unless they are willing to pay expert-level wages, they may never see that same level of services."

Increases were set aside for Troutt's department heads, their assistants and other administrative personnel not covered by a union contract.

RECEIVING the largest increases were the director of the Romulus Department of Responsive Government and his assistant.

Both Daniel J. Lambert, the department head, and Gary L. Bingamen, his assistant, received $2,500 increases, bringing Lambert's salary to a $15,000 yearly figure with Bingamen's at $14,800.

'County bonus check' to provide more jobs

Area communities stand to receive a "county bonus check" this summer to help hire the jobless.

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has appropriated more than $700,000 for communities which participated in the Public Employment Program (PEP) during the past two years to help to continue that program.

The money comes through the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, of which Wayne County has been named a prime sponsor.

IN ALL, area communities stand to receive $88,000, including $52,000 by Romulus and $12,000 each by Belleville, Huron Township and Sumpter Township.

Romulus' share of the funds comes under the Public Employment Programs grants for which cities receive funding if their unemployment rate exceeds 6.5 per cent for three consecutive months prior to the grant date of July 1, 1974.

The other communities receive funds under the Comprehensive Manpower Services grants which go to communities using the former federal PEP funds to hire personnel and wish to continue the program.

Romulus Clerk Leonard Folmar said: "The program will help the city fill the gaps in employment encountered with the ending of the federal PEP funds."

"I'VE DISCUSSED the matter with Mayor (Terry L.) Troutt, and he has asked me to supervise the program, possibly for use hiring part-time summer personnel to handle duties in the recreation program and the department

Moore's idea will net Huron Twp. $167,750

Huron Township Supervisor George W. Moore had an idea which was greeted with guffaws by the township's board of trustees, but it's Moore who's doing the grinning now...to the tune of $167,750.

Faced with a lengthy court battle over federal and state funds allegedly owed Huron from a sewer interceptor installation project begun in 1968, Moore decided to plead his case to officials at the White House. But instead of addressing his letter to President Nixon, Moore chose his personal secretary, Rosemary Woods.

"Nixon gets thousands of the federal government's share of the original sewer grant."

"This is a beautiful thing for the township," Moore said. "Now that Huron is getting the federal money it should be able to get the $127,250 the state owes it, too. The state said it would pay Huron the money if the federal government did. That's almost $300,000 the township will be getting."

The state earlier forwarded $55,000 it owed Huron for a sewer treatment plant project.

Huron had planned to go to court in pursuit of the funds, and Moore said the township now would withdraw the suit.

WATERY ENDING — Members of the Romulus Fire Department were among fire fighters from five communities called in to extinguish a burning gasoline tanker truck that blocked the westbound lanes of the I-94 Expressway Monday afternoon. The tandem truck caught fire after it swerved to avoid a small car, hitting a chuckhole and flipping the second container. Black smoke from the burning fuel could be seen from more than five miles away. Rush hour traffic was snarled until midnight as fire fighters fought to keep the container from exploding. — Photos by Roman Chief Photographer Lothar Konietzko.

To gain mayor's support

District reaffirms purpose of pool

By KAY DeBORD
Of The Roman Staff

In order to collect the support of Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt for a swimming pool millage proposal, Romulus School Supt. Robert L. McConeghy outlined a district position paper on community use of the planned facility.

Troutt had said at a recent Romulus Board of Education meeting that he would put his full support behind the millage "if the board can guarantee the pool will be for all the citizens...and if the board would inform the city by an informal memorandum that times will be set aside for recreational uses."

"I'll back the proposal 100 per cent," Troutt said, after listing the stipulations. A SIMILAR proposal for a swimming pool was turned down by voters, but new interest in the pool has been shown in recent months, McConeghy said.

The pool, if approved, would be constructed at Romulus High School and used during the week for school teams, swimming lessons, swim meets, life saving instruction and other related school uses.

A regular schedule of recreation programs would be set up to ensure its fullest use by residents during evening hours and on weekends, according to plans mapped out by the Romulus Board of Education.

It would cost $3.25 million and would be an Olympic-size, 25-yard pool with six lanes.

LOCKER ROOMS, a pool deck, audience area, parking facilities and laundry also have been included in the plan.

By taking the pool proposal to the public in the form of a millage request, the board of education will save thousands of dollars in interest, which would be expended if a bond issue was approved, the superintendent said.

According to administration figures, the owner of a home with a state-equalized value of $20,000 would pay approximately $65 in taxes for two years.

Some of the community uses suggested in a brochure being prepared for public distribution include recreation swimming, family nights, lifesaving and scuba classes, lessons for youngsters from two to 11 year-old, exercise swimming and classes for figure improvement, McConeghy said at Monday night's board meeting.

Interest on bonds to affect cost of new PCHA facility

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Of Enterprise Staff

The $22 million hospital in Taylor, planned by the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) more than seven years, will be built, but it was a painful decision for the authority's board of directors.

A pall of silence hung over the boardroom Thursday night when the only bid offered to finance the $22 million facility came in at 7.1575 per cent - a rate which would cost the authority $30.6 million in interest alone during the 20-year period of the bonds.

PCHA consultants had expected bidding at 6.5 per cent only one month ago. However in what PCHA financial consultant Julius Poshelon described as "one of the most panicky days I've seen in 40 years in the bond business," the official offering from a conglomerate of more than 20 top bonding agencies in the nation came in .7 per cent higher, increasing the total bond costs by $2.8 million.

"I'M AFRAID the rates will stay here or higher during ensuing months," Poshelon said. "The federal reserve system reports that the major banks in New York are into the reserves for more money than ever before, and a report from the Harris Trust and Savings Bank indicated that prime interest rates will stay at 10 per cent or higher until the end of 1974."

"Six weeks from tonight, the rates will be worse than this," PCHA Board Chairman Donald J. Pizzimenti said the authority had to decide "whether to accept this bid or to try again with the thought in mind that the contract bid for the hospital runs out July 5."

"The PCHA has something solid here, something measurable and something you can accept," Pizzimenti said. "Everything else, which may happen, is pure speculation."

"I GET NERVOUS when the authority is offered only one bid, but the authority is responding to an inflated market."

"PCHA is investing its short term revenues at 10 per cent today, so where the interest rate is high on bond bids, the authority is receiving high interest on its investments."

PCHA Board Member Patrick Norton of Wayne said: "The economic difficulties the PCHA faces today shock the board, the PCHA is buying these bonds with cheap money."

"With inflation, isn't money worth less today than it was before? And if that is true, wouldn't it be unwise not to proceed?"

POSHOLON SAID the bid "is comparable to a six per cent interest rate one year ago, because of the economic times."

"If you stop inflation today, it's safe to say that you'll drop the interest rates," he added. "But by all projections, the rates will stay at this level or go higher."

Only PCHA Board Member Milton Powers of Taylor urged the authority to turn down the bid.

"It would be a poor business practice to pass the bonds at this time," he said.

HOWEVER, Edward R. Dudek of Inkster moved that the bid be accepted and was supported by Robert Wagner of Westland.

"If the PCHA doesn't proceed, it may lose the only bonding concern interested," Dudek said.

Board Member James Stewart of Romulus said: "I'm nervous about the one bid on bonds, but these concerns have to group to afford those bonds. I'm in favor of agreeing with the proposal to accept this offer."

"Construction costs are rising at a rate greater than one per cent per month now, and if the PCHA loses the contract bid, the authority could stand to lose more of money in rebidding."

The board voted 27-1, with Powers dissenting, to accept the bids.

Members from the area voting in favor of the proposal were Stewart and Carl Morris of Romulus, and Robert D. Marble of Sumpter Township.

Board members Daniel Richard of Huron Township and Patricia Cullen of Van Buren Township were not at the meeting.

City administrative employees gain raise with budget adoption

Two new deputy heads of the Romulus Department of Public Works (DPW) received $2,400 raises in the budget.

Jim Radford, deputy director of highways and streets saw his salary jump from $12,600 to $15,000 yearly; while Robert Plank, director of city hall and grounds maintenance, received the same $2,400 increase, bringing his salary to $15,000.

THE TWO assistant dog wardens received $2,271 increases, bringing their salaries to $10,500 yearly; while dog warden, George Hartgrove received a $2,137 increase to bring his salary to $11,000.

David Paul, head of the city's DPW, received a $1,757 increase in the budget, raising his salary to $16,000 yearly.

Larry Moore, accountant and director of the city's water and sewer department received a $1,500 raise to bring his salary to $12,000 yearly.

Harold Reiner, the city's tax assessor, received a $1,312 raise to bring his salary from $13,188 to $14,500 yearly.

ORDINANCE officer Jacob Koch received a $1,290 raise to bring his salary to $13,000.

An $1,268 increase from $9,100 to $10,368 went to the personnel director, Lorraine Kubiak.

Romulus Urban Renewal and Public Housing Commission Director George Wilhelm received $1,017 in raises to bring his total salary to $18,000 yearly.

Wilhelm earns $15,000 as urban renewal director and $3,000 as public housing director.

RAISES OF $1,000 went to Howard Lethemon, the city's chief building inspector; Helen Gallien, assistant director of finance and purchasing, and Edmund Bizek Sr., director of finance and purchasing.

The raises brought Lethemon's salary to $17,500, Bizek's salary to $13,500 and Gallien's salary to $12,500.

Marie DeBuyscher, recreation director, received a $977 raise to bring her salary from $10,023 to $11,000.

Barry Baumann, inventory and purchasing controller at the DPW received a $600 raise to bring his salary to $10,400.

JOHN CHIHAN received a $500 raise to bring his salary to $17,000 yearly.

Chihan's increase was the smallest by percentages, with his raise totaling three per cent over the year.

The largest increases by percentages went to the assistant dog wardens, who received upwards of 27 per cent in increases.

Next highest went to Hartgrove, who received a 24 per cent boost.

BINGAMEN'S and Lambert's raises were the only other ones at a 20 per cent level or better.

With inflation rising at more than 10 per cent during the past year, the increases meant that 10 of the 18 administrators maintained at least the same purchasing power of their salaries by receiving at least 10 per cent in increases.

"When looking at these salaries, the people of the city should look at the jobs the people perform, and not the names involved," Troutt said. "These are some very responsible positions in this city, and deserve top dollar."

"Though the raises may look high, I dare say that there wouldn't be enough qualified people applying for jobs at these salaries if they now were vacated."

Screening to begin for hiring of 2 detectives, youth officer

Screening processes soon will begin for the hiring of two full-time detectives and one full-time juvenile officer in Romulus.

"The city is working on a plan where the sheriff will supervise the special officers, but where the city will have a say in who will work here," Mayor Terry L. Troutt said. "I think it's important to hire men who are good for the community and men who will feel some professional pride in their work in the community."

Troutt visualizes the two detectives hired by the city as follow-up forces in Romulus' continuing war against crime.

"THE CITY has services of many road patrol officers," Troutt said, "But due to a lack of manpower at the out-county sheriff's branch, some of the investigative work that must be done for effective police protection in Romulus gets shuffled to the back."

"This is no criticism of the sheriff's patrol, because it has other problems to cope with than those in Romulus. But then, to provide the greatest service to the citizens, there is a need for investigative work aimed at rooting out those problems which cause the most damage in the city."

Troutt said burglaries in the community probably will receive the most attention.

"But that doesn't mean other crimes will be ignored," he added.

THE JUVENILE officer proposed by Troutt "may be used to end problems such as those experienced by the residents of the southeastern section of the city," he said.

"With so many young people with problems, such as the vandalism and rowdiness reported by residents in the Middlebelt-Eureka area, there is a need for a specialist in juvenile problems to be on staff," Troutt said. "Once again, the city will have the right to hire a skilled individual who is well-suited to work in the community."

County will improve many roads in city

City-owned roads aren't the only ones scheduled to be improved in Romulus.

Three miles of county roads are scheduled for improvement this year, with 10 miles slated for improvements over the next two years, according to a spokesman of the Wayne County Road Commission.

The information came as part of Wayne County Commissioner Edgar Harris' announcement that 30 road improvement projects are slated for the county's 26th District during the next two years. Improvements also include roads in Huron Township.

SLATED FOR construction this year in Romulus is a two lane resurfacing project along Eureka Road from just east of Merriman Road to Wayne Road and the widening of Goddard Road between Middlebelt Road and Rogall Drive in Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

Also slated for improvement this year are Inkster Road between King Road and Huron River Drive; West Road from Inkster to Bell Road and Willow Road between Waltz Road and Huron River Drive.

Slated for construction in 1975 is Eureka Road from Inkster to east of Merriman, Inkster Road from Ecorse to Van Buren and Middlebelt Road from King to Huron River Drive.

Also scheduled for construction in 1976 are Eureka Road from Wayne to Huron River Drive; Merriman Road from Ecorse to Van Buren; Middlebelt Road between Northline and Eureka Road; Wayne-Vining Road between I-94 and Van Buren Road; West Road from Telegraph to Huron River Drive and extending West Road from Huron River Drive to I-275.

ROMULUS MAYOR Terry L. Troutt was elated at the announcement stating: "These are the sort of improvements Romulus has been seeking for its roads since the airport has been cutting the city apart."

"I'm glad to see that Romulus finally is on the Wayne County Road Commission's planning map for something other than building airport holding ponds, because the residents have suffered not only from airport construction but from poor roads for many years."

Troutt said the Romulus City Council was scheduled to consider approving a resolution requested by Wayne County at last night's meeting to allow the purchase and condemnation of property along the Eureka Road resurfacing project.

Legitimate or suspicious?

Reform overlooks 'honorarium system'

By TOM OCHILTREE
Enterprise Roman, Washington Bureau Chief

Two Michigan congressmen — William S. Broomfield, a Republican, and James G. O'Hara, a Democrat — have called on their colleagues to strictly limit the muscle big money now exerts on national politics.

Their separate statements focused on different aspects of campaign reform — a subject taken more seriously than ever before in the wake of the Watergate disclosures.

Broomfield asked the lawmakers to take a close look at one of their own activities — the acceptance by some of them of large payments for speaking engagements, written articles or personal appearances.

"WITH ALL THE talk about campaign reform this year, one area of abuse has been completely overlooked — this honorarium system," he said.

Declaring that the system is at best suspicious, and at worst nothing short of influence peddling, Broomfield added:

"At issue is the ethics involved in accepting these honoraria. Who draws the line between legitimate payments and suspicious payments

Payments for speeches and articles mask illegal contributions possibly used to buy influence? The only way to resolve the question is to eliminate all such payments."

The honorarium system has been in existence for a long time. Only in recent years, however, have members been required to report the amount of honoraria they earned and, in the case of senators, the sources of such payments.

POINTING OUT THAT these disclosures have revealed the size of the problem, Broomfield said:

"Figures for 1971 and 1972 show that members of the Senate collected over $1.4 million in honoraria for those years. A close look at the sources of these payments reveals much of this $1.4 million came from special interest groups that are directly affected by legislation enacted by Congress."

In many cases, these payments for speeches and articles mask illegal campaign contributions or go directly into a members pocket for personal use, he declared.

"THE SENATE FAILED" to include any honoraria provision in the campaign reform bill recently passed in that chamber. Yet any serious campaign reform effort should include legislation to prevent future abuses of the honorarium system by eliminating any payments in excess of out-of-pocket travel expenses," Broomfield said.

He has introduced a measure so specifying in the House. In addition to cutting down on the gravy, such a reform, if approved by Congress, would have a beneficial side result, Broomfield predicted.

It would keep more lawmakers in Washington concentrating on legislation rather than lining their pockets by gallivanting around the country. O'Hara reaffirmed his commitment to the principle of public financing of campaigns for candidates for elective federal offices.

He was critical, however, of the Senate passed bill, presently pending in the House, on the ground that "it only partially eliminates some of the problems that now exist and creates a whole host of new ones."

The Senate bill radically changes the present system of campaign financing by candidates for the House, the Senate and the Presidency.

Instead of relying on large private contributions, the candidates would be limited to a hybrid system of small private contributions and matching grants from the federal government to pay for their primary contests and to full public financing to cover their general election campaign costs.

O'HARA CONCEDED that the Senate bill was a move in the right direction, but he charged "it still makes it possible for substantial sums of special interest money to find their way into political campaigns," he added.

"The people are tired of having their elections influenced by this special interest money. The public has made it plain that it wants to see political campaign spending carried out at a far more modest level than has been the case in the past."

As we see it

It's a political year, so watch for alarms

If there is one thing politicians can do, it is view a problem with shock and alarm.

Give them an obvious problem and they will give you a call for action, criticize whoever is in charge and maybe appoint a study committee or two. Then they move onto other matters, their obligation fulfilled.

Thus it was when 11 patients escaped from the Ypsilanti State Hospital Forensic Center. The patients were being held for psychiatric examination and three were accused murderers.

The response was instantaneous. Gov. William G. Milliken ordered the State Police to investigate the escapes and asked for an immediate report from the Mental Health Department.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Sander Levin decided he needed to visit Ypsilanti to see the situation for himself.

A resolution was introduced in the Senate calling for a study by the Legislature.

There is precious little a spur of the moment visit by Levin can do to help the situation. He can leave "viewing with alarm" but the only real benefit is some exposure for his campaign.

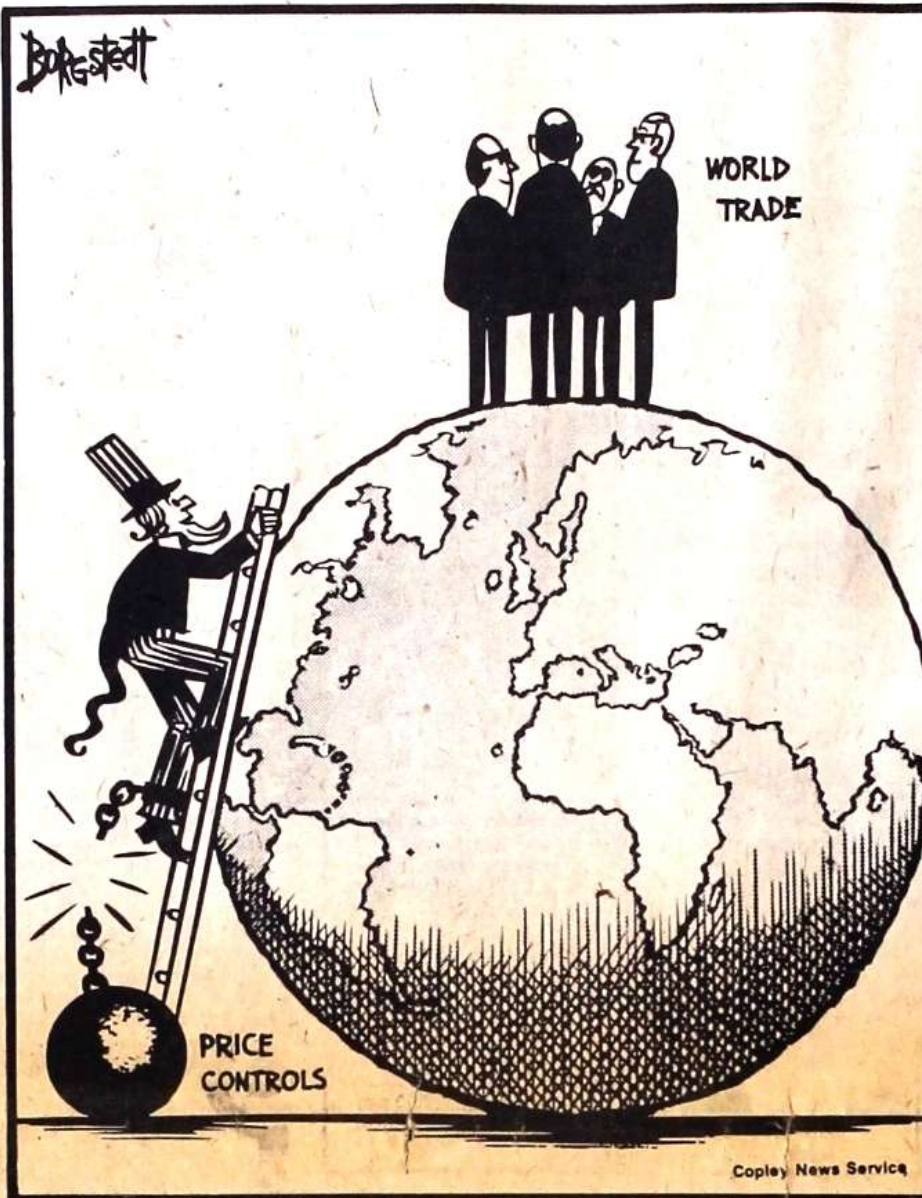

A legislative study, suggested by Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, will do little good. It is too late to put together a decent study before the summer break and legislative studies in general have a rather bleak history in terms of their impact on anything.

As far as Vander Laan is concerned, he was in the Senate when the Legislature passed laws establishing the Forensic Center at Ypsilanti and requiring that persons found incompetent to stand trial be sent there rather than to Ionia. The Forensic Center and the phasing down of Ionia all was provided for in budget bills he helped pass. It's almost as if he helped open the barn door and then complained because the horse got out.

This is not to say there are not problems at Ypsilanti and that nothing should be done. Obviously something needs to be done, at least in tightening up security.

But this is a political year and that means politicians feel compelled to do a lot of yelling and dancing around the campfire before they go into action.

In this area, at least, the new post-Watergate politics is just like the old brand.

Dade's 'metro government' works

County manager concept stymies 'boss cronyism'

Editor's Note — A proposal calling for the establishment of a county executive manager for Wayne County will be on the fall ballot. While the proposal is being bandied about by organized groups and politicians, we asked a Panax Newspapers writer in Miami Beach to write about the status of "metro" government in Dade County. Here is his report:

By DONN J. TILSON
Panax-Miami Beach Times Writer

MIAMI BEACH — Dade County's 27 municipalities have been forced by financial necessity to turn over large segments of their responsibilities to Metro government over the past 17 years.

The county, which covers Miami, Miami Beach and 25 other cities, has become the nation's prototype of metropolitan government.

But in their efforts to escape soaring tax rates, city officials and businessmen have surrendered their authority reluctantly, and often bitterly.

OPPOSITION coming principally from cities through the League of Municipalities, has ranged from general fears of encroachment to differences over control of specific services.

However, despite the strong feelings that have generated campaigns for recall of county commissioners and proposed charter amendments, the Metro concept has never been seriously challenged.

By far the greatest fear has been that a strong mayor would replace professional government administration with "boss cronyism." When a recommendation for a change to a strong executive was made by a study commission in 1972, residents and groups that had supported the original charter heavily criticized the proposed amendment.

IN A COUNTYWIDE referendum, the proposal was soundly defeated as most people favor a mayor-chairman system with a county manager who would serve as chief executive.

Even under the present system, voters have questioned the power of the county manager to appoint and remove administrative officers and employees though such actions are subject to the commission's approval.

Attempts to restore the elective status of such officials as tax assessor and sheriff have been frequent but unsuccessful.

EIGHT CHARTER amendments to end Metro's control over such functions as sewage, water supply, and transportation were proposed in the first five years of Metro. But most were defeated by citizens who believed in the necessity of Metro, although many were clearly upset over its assumption of power.

Likewise, in the judicial system, when it became clear that municipal courts would no longer have jurisdiction over such matters as traffic violations, for example, the cities drew up a charter amendment asserting their political autonomy and right to self-government.

Since its defeat the Metro court has since established uniform codes for building, traffic, fire protection, housing, and air and water pollution.

PAST CONTROVERSIES, however, have underscored a basic ambiguity in the division of powers between Metro and the cities. An ambiguity rooted in the provisions allowing Metro to administer certain services countywide while others are handled on a municipal basis.

Although the Metro Public Safety Department provides many countywide services as crime labs, training facilities, and accident records, 25 municipalities have their own police and four their own communication systems. However, general police patrol is offered the unincorporated areas and recently Miami transferred its jail to Metro which plans to build a supplemental $6 million, 300-inmate pre-trial detention facility.

Inner-city residents have loudly objected, however to the proposed site of the new jail, which they fear might be built on land originally designated by Little HUD, Metro's Housing Authority for low-rent housing. Many black leaders contend such housing is more desperately needed than the jail. Presently, public hearings are being conducted to assess public opinion before funds are committed.

ONE OF THE MAJOR issues that Metro is attempting to resolve is the development of a comprehensive master land use plan for future population growth. Presently, cities enforce zoning ordinances within their jurisdictions and Metro handles zoning in the unincorporated areas.

As six citizen task forces prepare recommendations for the plan, county officials hope to balance the rapid growth of the area with the unique features of the Everglades in designing development and resource management.

Opposition has been swift, however, as developers battle county moratoriums on west and central Dade imposed to forestall urban sprawl until the master plan is completed.

CONSERVATIONISTS argue that even when planned regional sewage treatment facilities at Key Biscayne and at two sites in north and south Dade are completed in 1977, expansion into the major water-recharge areas of west Dade will eventually cause salt water intrusion into the county's fresh water supply, endangering populations and the future of the delicate Everglades.

That water is a vital resource in Dade is moot. A Metro Water and Sewer Board has already admitted a countywide daily emergency. Efforts to fight off a recent Florida Keys Aqueduct Authority request for an additional 20 million gallons a day from south Dade wells have brought the scarcity to the fore.

Monroe County, also experiencing heavy population growth, already has six of its eight million gallons piped in from Dade but is still falling 300,000 gallons short daily.

Meanwhile Metro's Water and Sewer Authority is acquiring seven privately owned utilities in an effort to consolidate the various utilities into one major system. Agreements with 38 developers to provide service in unincorporated areas have been signed and major transmission projects in north and south Dade are underway.

Dems help!

Nixon foils call for his resignation

By MITCH KEHETIAN
Editor of the Enterprise Roman

In these very same columns one week ago today, I repeated an earlier position that President Richard Nixon should not resign...that even the President of the United States deserves the right to judiciary process.

That column was prepared Friday, May 10 and during the long weekend that followed—the nation's major metropolitan newspapers carried banner headlines about the president's "pending resignation."

James M. Naughton, a Capitol Hill correspondent for the New York Times Service, said: "Speculation swept across Washington Friday that President Nixon was on the verge of announcing his resignation."

THE WIRE SERVICES were busy churning out "news" reports on ranking Republicans calling for the president to resign. One major wire service transmitted a 20 column inch story quoting one-time pro-Nixon newspapers who had joined the lynch Nixon bandwagon.

By May 12 I figured that my token plea as editor of a weekly publication would never see print; but knowing well the political life of the president, I had faith he would not resign. For if he did, then the American judiciary system and our concept that a man is innocent until proven guilty would be dealt a mortal wound. Even suspected killers are granted their day in court...under our judicial process.

When I arrived at the office early Monday morning, I checked the wires for the latest news. The ugly mood for a lynching party was still hot, and being fueled by Republicans who face election this troubled Watergate year...and cheered by newspapers who boast of protecting the judicial process.

THEN TO TOP IT OFF, some of our nation's illustrious national news columnists had the audacity to write that Nixon's foul language had shattered the morality of the country. Another had the gall to claim that former President Johnson's record of bad language "was in context, that it was colorful and pointed—that Mr. Nixon's language is not colorful and not in context." What kind of double talk is that, I ask.

By late Monday the nation knew the resignation campaign was falling by the wayside. Some were beginning to see through the ploy concocted by several so-called leading Republicans and Republican-vested journals. They had one concern—their own political hides and interests—and nothing more.

Everything they had accused the president of committing, they had now executed.

THEN CAME A BREATH of fresh air—and it came from ranking members of the Democratic Party...not Nixon's party.

Senate Democratic Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, said: "This nation is going through a purgatory of sorts at present. Resignation is not the answer. This is the time to keep cool—the expression, I believe, is 'cool it.'"

Then came the wise words of Senate Democratic Whip Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia. Byrd warned that the U.S. constitutional system isn't a parliamentary system where a government can be swept from office by a flashfire of public opinion.

We also heard from Democratic House speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma. The House speaker said it is better for the constitutional process to run its course, and then added he would "have nothing to do" with any congressional effort to force Nixon's resignation.

BY THE SUDDEN turn of events on Capitol Hill, one might suspect that an alliance of sorts had been cooked.

No one can deny that the Dems' call to "cool it" may have been motivated by the coming elections, rather than the constitutional concerns we cited last Wednesday.

For whatever their reasons to "cool it," I must commend the elder statesmen of the Democratic Party. Then again, they remember how the political opportunists and certain segments of the eastern establishment press crucified President Johnson over the Vietnam war.

If the President is guilty of impeachable crimes, then let the due process of law take its course—and until that day arrives, whatever the verdict, don't count on a resignation. Nixon's no quitter. Just check his political history.

A colorful 1837 flag ceremony It was a frigid day in Detroit

The few spectators present huddled together to keep warm as the biting wind whipped the loose snow from the front lawn of the Capitol Building in Detroit.

Curious clerks and secretaries could be seen in the windows, not wanting to venture outside for the ceremonies on this raw, Michigan winter day.

A few dignitaries stood in line, some stamping their feet, others clapping their gloved hands together, trying to stay warm and hoping the presentation wouldn't take long.

THE TROOPS, 61 members of the Brady Guard, the first uniformed company of militia in the state, stood at attention...wiggling toes inside the black boots, or tightening and relaxing fingers inside the white gloves, squeezing and relaxing the grip on their rifle stocks.

Despite the cold and wind, the guardsmen looked sharp in their grey cadet coats, trimmed in black and yellow, with black leather caps and a white and blue plume and brass visor.

Finally a silent signal was given and a young man stepped from the group of civilians. A man hardly old enough to be a leader. In his hands he carried a folded blue cloth.

Guard Captain Isaac S. Rowland came forward to meet the youth, and the "Boy Governor," Stevens T. Mason, Michigan's first Governor handed Rowland the cloth.

In his hands he carried a folded blue cloth

THE BRADY GUARD of Detroit, on February 22, 1837, had received Michigan's first flag to carry as they served in the "Patriot War."

It was an official flag however, designed by Allen Smith, Jr. of Detroit. On one side was a portrait of Governor Mason, while the reserve side displayed a state seal, a portrait of General Hugh Brady, an American Flag, and an unidentified woman.

Another unofficial flag was flown during the cornerstone dedication of Soldiers Monument in the National Cemetery at Gettysburg, Pa. on Independence Day, 1865. Governor Henry H. Crapo was in the reviewing stand as the newest flag, bearing Michigan's coat of arms on one side and the U.S. coat of arms on the other was raised.

SINCE MASON'S presentation to Captain Rowland, and the raising of the flag at Gettysburg, Michigan's flag has undergone several changes.

Finally, in 1911, the State Legislature made it all official when it adopted Michigan's present flag with the simple phrase: "The State Flag shall be blue charged with the arms of the state."

The Michigan Coat of Arms, also adopted in 1911, was designed by Territorial Governor Lewis Cass, and was patterned after that of the Hudson Bay Fur Company.

Though the physical flag has been changed several times, the idea, born 137 years ago, is still there.

PARTY-TIME — It was party time last week at Huron Health Day activities as members of the Huron Health Committee observed 20th anniversary of the annual clinic with a cake. Joining in on the impromptu celebration were Dell Hamilton, a health committee member (from left), Louise Otter, immunization chairperson; Dottie Rush registration chairperson; and Glenice Bosman, a volunteer worker. Taking care of the cake is Phyllis Tourangeau, general chairperson. — Enterprise Roman photo.

Meter auction brings in $307

The recent public sale of Belleville's 206 discarded parking meters and other unclaimed, excess or surplus city property netted the city $307.

The public auction was held at the city barn, located at 100 Davis St.

Belleville City Clerk Jean Baumdraber said the parking meters were sold on a piecemeal basis rather than as a total item, which would have required advertising for sealed bid proposals.

The highest bid received for a parking meter was $5. The lowest bid was $1 for five meters. A number of the meters were sold at $3 and $4 each.

Parking meter parts and pieces went to one area resident for $5.

Other items sold included a used ski jacket, bicycles, miscellaneous parts and frames, a new battery, a new electric brush and a money sorter.

"The meters hadn't brought in any revenue for two of three years because the city couldn't enforce them," Belleville Mayor Royce E. Smith said.

When first installed, the parking meters cost the city in the neighborhood of $60 to $65 each.

A special five-week summer program will be available for students with speech and language impairments in the Van Buren Public School District.

The program was approved by the Van Buren Board of Education at last week's meeting.

A request to continue the program for severe speech and language impaired students during the summer period was presented by Robert Crain, director of special services for the school district.

Edgemont Elementary School in Belleville.

In other matters, the school board heard a brief progress report on the learning center at West Willow Elementary School by Ruth Hayes, the school psychologist.

A recommendation that the center be continued next year

Presbyterian church setting for wedding

A week-long honeymoon at Gatlinburg, Tenn. and the Smoky Mountains followed the recent marriage of Nancy Louise Bohms of Belleville and Mark Douglas Spencer of Ypsilanti.

The newlyweds now are residing at 2815 Bynan, Ypsilanti where the bridegroom is employed by the Ford Motor Co. and the bride by A.C.E., Inc.

The First United Presbyterian Church of Ypsilanti was the setting for the evening ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd D. Bohms of 4725 Denton Rd., Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas N. Spencer of 1242 Shirley, Ypsilanti.

THE REV. Laurence N. Woodruff presided at the double ring rite attended by 350 relatives and friends.

For her wedding day Nancy selected a toe-touching gown of dotted swiss patterned in the empire mode with a sheer bodice long sleeves and a stand-up collar.

A detachable floor-length veil of silk illusion was caught to a Juliette cap to form her headgear with blue-tipped white miniature roses, carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath comprising her cascade bouquet.

A life long friend and schoolmate, Vicki Bryant of Belleville, was chosen to be maid of honor. The trio of bridesmaids included Christine Spencer of Brighton and Mrs. Philip Tissue of Crystal, Mich., sisters of the bridegroom and bride, respectively, and Mrs. Richard Bohms of Belleville, sister-in-law of the bride.

THEIR IDENTICAL powder blue, dotted swiss frocks were designed with short puffed sleeves, high-rise bodices and white lace and daisy trim on the V-necklines.

Colonial bouquets of blue-tipped white carnations, miniature roses and baby's breath complimented the formal-length dresses as did their matching floral headpieces.

Dan Myers of Ypsilanti was best man and ushers, all from Ypsilanti, were Dennis Schlabach, John Harding and the bride's brothers, Richard and Thomas Bohms.

Cymbidium orchids were presented to both mothers of the bride and groom. Mrs. Bohms pinning hers to her formal turquoise taffeta gown which was worn with a matching embroidered coat and silver accessories. For her son's wedding, Mrs. Spencer donned a long apricot gown accented with iridescents and silver accessories.

AFTER GRADUATING from Belleville High School, the bride attended Cleary College as did her husband who is an alumnus of Ypsilanti High School.

The rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents, was held at Win Schuler's in Ann Arbor.

The ceremony will be followed by a grave side service at the Hillside Cemetery near the Denton Road bridge.

The annual Memorial Day parade, which had been scheduled for 1 p.m., has been cancelled, said Jerry Maton, a VFW official.

Van Buren Township officials have combined the Memorial Day parade with the grand opening ceremonies of the township's new 101-acre recreational site, Van Buren Park.

The township parade will begin at the park office and proceed through the park grounds.

Home Arts Club banquet features community players

Home Arts Club members recently gathered at Casa Nova Restaurant in Ypsilanti for their annual May banquet. Elaine Gutierrez, president, welcomed the group (which included one guest, Helen Corzine) and then turned the gavel over to incoming president, Sharon Matthews.

Mrs. Matthews, who chaired the nominating committee, announced her fellow officers who were elected for the 1974-75 club year. Mildred Baker is vice-president; Muriel Wolfe, recording secretary; Sharon Richendollar, corresponding secretary, and Jean Ferguson, treasurer.

Virginia Turney, who will be in charge of programs for the year, will be assisted by Eunice Kause, Lucille Bravatto and Marge Hosman. A gift of appreciation was presented to Mrs. Gutierrez from the club and floral centerpieces awarded to Charlotte Budd, Joy Hill and Lee Smith.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the Belleville Community Players (BCP) who presented two short plays based on the "Love American Style" television show. Bill Loyd was narrator and introduced Ron Zielinski and Sharon Matthews who, in the first play, portrayed a young couple who had just met at a coffee house and were getting acquainted in his apartment.

A husband and wife team, Joe and Judi Adams starred in the second vehicle about a married couple who disagree on who's the boss and which roles belong to the man and which to the woman. Both plays were complete with props (sofa, bed, television set, lamp, (table) which the players transported to Ypsilanti for the program.

Loyd told the audience of the BCP's future plans and what is involved in participating in the theater group. He emphasized the need for members, not only for actors and actresses, but for helping with scenery, costumes, make-up, promotion and production. He urged the group to consider participating with the "footlight and grease paint crowd."

MD drive to be held June 4

Two local residents have been named area chairmen for the 1974 Muscular Dystrophy Drive to be held from 5-9 p.m. June 4.

Elvera Fischer will lead the drive in Romulus and Lillian Kuzel will head the march in Belleville.

Both women have issued an appeal for volunteers to join in the house-to-house solicitation by calling MD's volunteer headquarters at 272-0063.

Proceeds from the four-hour drive will support medical research and patient services for victims of muscular dystrophy. The disease, as yet incurable, primarily attacks children and is nearly always fatal.

Local MD patients receive free diagnosis, therapy, braces, wheelchairs and social services at Detroit's Muscular Dystrophy Clinic. The clinic, supported annually by MD's house-to-house campaign, is free of charge to all MD patients in Michigan.

Area artists to exhibit at art fair

Area mom wins top prize

Mother's Day turned out to be extra special for Mrs. Donald (Emma) Greca of Bemis Road, Belleville, since she was the top winner in a recent "mother of the day" contest.

Submitting her name to the Brentwood House in Melvindale recently was the luckiest move she could have made since it meant gifts galore for her. Dinner with her family and friends, a double orchid corsage, a musical doll, perfume, and food from a delicatessen were provided by the sponsors and other Melvindale merchants.

Dining with the "guest of honor" and her husband on the occasion were their 10 children. Don Jr. and his wife, Peggy who came from Saline with her two children and Emily Cotner from Ypsilanti with her two sons. Also at the table were their son, Tony, and two of his friends, and the remainder of their clan, Eddie, David, Patricia, Charles, Curtis, Anita and Ted.

Still others in their party were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Willett and Mrs. Marie Willett and son, Bob, of Detroit; Dorothy Greca of Carleton and the Larry Greecas of Ypsilanti.

Summer bride-elect 'showered'

Relatives and friends, 50 in all, arrived at the Wally Skszek home on Expressway Drive, Belleville, Sunday for a shower honoring their daughter, Karen. Driving from Bad Axe, Kinde, Lapeer, E. Detroit, Utica, Fenton, Lansing and Southfield, the group also included the prospective bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Viola Cooper, who flew in from Auburn, N.Y.

Bunco was the afternoon entertainment followed by the awarding of 10 potted geraniums as door prizes. Mrs. Cooper made the little magnetized and numbered corsages which determined the winners.

A full-course supper preceded the gift presentation. The honoree's future attendants, who were given the doll cakes which centered the buffet, helped in opening the miscellaneous gifts.

Lori Clark of Ypsilanti, the bride-elect's roommate at Eastern Michigan University, attended as did Luanne Smith, who came from Kalamazoo College for the occasion; Sharon Patke who just completed her junior year at Central Michigan University and Michelle Jurko of Royal Oak. Little Susan Duda, who's to be a "rice girl" at the wedding, helped by forming the ribbon bouquet.

The pastel theme of Karen's wedding was carried out in the bridal party cakes, in the streamers and table appointments.

Her marriage to Bill Mida of Belleville is planned for Aug. 10 at Holy Trinity Chapel on the EMU campus.

Where's the supermarket

Where are today's supermarkets located? Sixty-one per cent are in new business centers; 17 percent in neighborhood locations; 13 percent have highway locations; 9 percent in old, large business centers. Not only has the typical new supermarket moved into the higher rent areas, but its parking lot has doubled in size in the last 16 years for the convenience of its customers. These factors, along with salaries for more employees, transportation costs and taxes, contribute to the cost of food.

A family party at the Alford's served as a welcome home for the Andersons.

For youngsters at Beverly Elementary School the last two weeks of the month will include more than just a day off on Monday.

Today, beginning at 10:30 a.m., an immunization clinic will be held for all students in the school library.

The youngsters, however, will be able to soothe their sore arms at the school fair set for Saturday. The festivities will be from noon to 4 p.m.

Worker resigns position

The Van Buren Township Building Inspector, Darryl Robson, has submitted a letter of resignation, effective July 2.

Robson, 36, lives at 15634 Martinsville Rd., Van Buren Township.

Robson cited his health as the reason for his resignation. He has been employed by the township since 1970.

The Van Buren Township Board of Trustees along with Robson's notice accepted the resignation of Jan Wyman of Belleville. She had served on the Old Township Hall Committee.

The trustees authorized letters of appreciation and commendation for Robson and Mrs. Wyman.

The Van Buren Township Police Department issued 58 traffic violations during April. The use of radar by police resulted in 37 motorists receiving speeding tickets.

In addition, township officers handled 80 complaints and dispatches from the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Dog tags to expire June 30

It's time to license dogs in the City of Belleville. Current dog licenses expire June 30, according to Belleville City Clerk Jean Baumdraber.

New dog tags are available at the municipal building, 6 Main St. After the June 30 deadline, a penalty will be added to the license fee.

A city-wide dog survey will be taken by the police department to see if dog owners have complied with the ordinance, Mrs. Baumdraber said.

Planners to review rezoning

The Van Buren Township Planning Commission will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. June 12 on a proposed amendment to a township zoning ordinance, the hearing will be held at the township hall, 46425 Tyler Rd.

The proposed amendment involves the rezoning of two lots in the Newman Orchards Subdivision from single-family to general business.

The 2.41-acre land parcel is located east of Rawsonville Road, south of I-94.

THINK SPRING—Clad in a bright yellow and green costume, first grade student Danni Bowman conjured up all her magical powers as a flower to get fellow students at Cory Elementary School to "Think Spring." Danni was a member of the cast of the school production about the season. More than 150 first grade students took part in the play, which also was staged for the Cory PTA. — Enterprise Roman photo.

In Cory play Youngsters think spring

There was a wide variety of flowers, ranging from daisies to daffodils, as first grade students at Cory Elementary School recently staged "Think Spring" for fellow students at the school. More than 150 youngsters took to the stage to urge the older students to adjust their thinking to fit the season.

Reunion plans set for Romulus High

The Romulus High School Class of 1964 will be holding its 10-year reunion July 27 at the Roma Hall in Garden City. Tickets are $10 per person or $20 per couple. The reunion will feature dinner and entertainment by the "Rhythm Ramblers." Information on tickets can be obtained by calling Diane (Charette) Tryon at 729-0816; Duane Wessels at 941-0776, and Marge (Fitzwilliams) Twitchell at 728-6155. The three party organizers also are seeking the addresses of all former class members. Area residents who know the whereabouts of other class members are urged to contact them.

For tax purposes County adjusts values

Romulus officially is worth $206.4 million and Huron Township officially is worth $40.2 million. The two values were placed on the communities as part of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners' adoption of a resolution setting the county's value at $13.7 billion for fiscal 1974-75, an increase of nearly $300 million from the previous fiscal year. The action was necessary to set the worth of one mill in taxes in the county's 43 communities.

Dinner aids Kiwanis

The recent Romulus Kiwanis Club's Pancake Festival was declared "an overwhelming success" by project chairman John B. Lewkowicz.

More than 1,000 pancake dinners were served during the day-long affair, held at the Romulus Progressive Hall.

The Kiwanians expect to realize a $800 profit from the project.

Funds from the festival will be used to finance such Kiwanis projects as the upcoming Romulus Senior High School Honors Banquet and the Romulus High Football Banquet along with work with the handicapped throughout the area.

Some 30 club members worked on the project.

They included Gerald Nault, Jack Trumble, Tom Janack, Earl Lamb, Gideon Pettway Jr., Gene Wilson, Rod Smith, Lewkowicz and Edmund Bizek.

Also working were Frank Andrews, Hal Ferris, Joseph Nehra, Stan Gnas, Larry Hay, Gordon Mitton, Hazen Hay, Carl Morris, Richard Butz, Robert Martin and Simon Binder.

Exchange interests students

The surroundings were different, but students found the change of scenery interesting in the exchange day between Belleville's North and South junior high schools, according to a school spokesman.

The recent exchange of student councils was the first of what council officers hope will be an annual affair, he added.

The student council from North Junior High School toured South Junior High with the executive body of the school's student council. After a luncheon they met members of the South's Understanding Board, set up by the council to handle students' problems.

A similar program was staged when the South's executive council visited North Junior High School. Following the exchange day activities, a joint meeting was held at North Junior High.

While each group found interesting differences, they agreed that both schools are similar in many ways, the spokesman said.

You can also use T.I.C. lines to request a Triptik ... make your hotel-motel reservations in the U.S. and Canada ... answer your questions about traffic, recreational activities, Michigan events, the availability of campsites ... and just about anything else that has to do with travel.

Telephone submitted its latest request for a rate increase to the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC), the company president, David K. Easlick, acknowledged "the timing of our rate request couldn't be worse."

"With the economy in turmoil and lots of people out of work, I know Bell will get a lot of criticism for what the company is doing," he said.

Since Bell submitted its request for a $114 million raise, the MPSC has all but said it will throw the request out for being much too large.

mainly because it would include a $62 million increase in profits.

THE COMMISSION will hold a hearing May 22 to decide on a motion by Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley asking it to reject the request, the same as it did in 1973 when Consumers Power asked for a $144 million hike.

Indications are that unless Bell scales down its request, it will be rejected.

Bell contends that rising prices make $49 million of the request necessary and it defends the proposed profit increase, saying it is necessary "to give those who want to invest their hard earned savings a comparable return on their investment and encourage more investment."

Since 1970, Bell has been operating with an earnings level ceiling of 9.3 per cent on its investment and has earned between nine and eight per cent each year.

THAT LEVEL "ranks as one of the lowest authorized rates in the country for any of the Bell system companies," a company spokesman said.

MPSC Chairman William Rosenberg counters that the proposed increase to 12.4 per cent would give Michigan Bell "the highest profit level of any Bell operating company in the United States."

"Bell wants to change its fundamental way of doing business in the state," he said.

"It has been doing business for 20 years at a rate of return of less than 10 per cent. Now it wants a higher return than Detroit Edison is allowed."

rating while Edison just dropped from 'Double A' to 'A'."

"IN A TIME of inflation and high unemployment, with other firms facing a real squeeze, Bell is asking for even higher profits," Rosenberg said.

To avoid killing frost

Gardeners should plant crops during month

By JIM CARAVALLAH
Of The Enterprise-
Roman Staff

This week probably will be the best time to start sowing seed or planting crops in the hopes of having a fine garden this summer.

According to Gerald Draheim, agent of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service in Wayne, Western Wayne County, residents should wait until late in May to plant their gardens to avoid bouts with killing frost.

"There actually is no magic date for planting a garden to avoid frost," Draheim told Westland senior citizens at a gathering arranged as part of the city's continuing education program. "But if a gardener wants to save himself a lot of work every time there is a threat of frost, he should wait a few more days before planting.

"AS FAR as I'm concerned, after May 20 is the best time to plant."

Draheim told the group that "gardening is the thing to do this day and age to save money and to get back to nature."

"Residents in this area are fortunate, because it abounds with sandy soil, which is excellent for gardening, so long as it is watered."

"All that must be done to prepare the garden in this area is to till the ground to a depth of six or eight inches, to mix in some good compost to help hold moisture and to include some high phosphorus fertilizer to help nourish the plants."

Draheim said average homeowners can find "high phosphorus" fertilizer by checking the series of three numbers posted on each chemical fertilizer package. The first number designates the nitrogen content of fertilizer, the second phosphorus and the third the potassium content.

"ANY FERTILIZER with a high middle number is good," Draheim said. "Ordinary lawn fertilizer wouldn't fit the need because it's high in nitrogen content."

One item of caution to prospective gardeners

Draheim offers is "grow only what you need."

"You have to be careful and determine how much you really want of each item," he said. "There are certain things you shouldn't grow, unless you want to devote enough space, and then there are certain things which you can obtain large quantities of food from a small number of plants."

"It would take two 25-foot rows of sweet corn to yield 40 ears," Draheim said. "It's hardly worth the effort, considering how long 40 ears of corn would last the average family."

THE AGENT said area residents shouldn't overdo the "weed spraying routine" in their gardens.

"Some people spray too much and others too little," he said. "When there is a need, spray. But generally the problems aren't that critical to require a lot of weed killer."

Draheim suggests that weeds can be kept under control with measures other than spraying.

"Grass clippings, so long as they don't have weed killers sprayed on them can be used as mulch to keep weeds down," said the agricultural agent.

"Other mulches could be newspapers or a new plastic sheet which is spread along garden rows with little Xs cut in it where the plants come through."

"AND THEN there's the traditional hoeing."

"In planting a garden, the gardener should leave at least 18 inches between rows to allow hoeing between rows."

"Every gardener should realize that the more he spends on special chemicals to keep his crops perfect, the more he spends on his food."

"It would work out that homegrown items cost more to grow than store-bought items and when that happens, the garden is self-defeating."

"THE GARDENER would be better off to go down to a farmer's market early on weekdays to get good wholesale buys rather than gardening."

Draheim said he is available

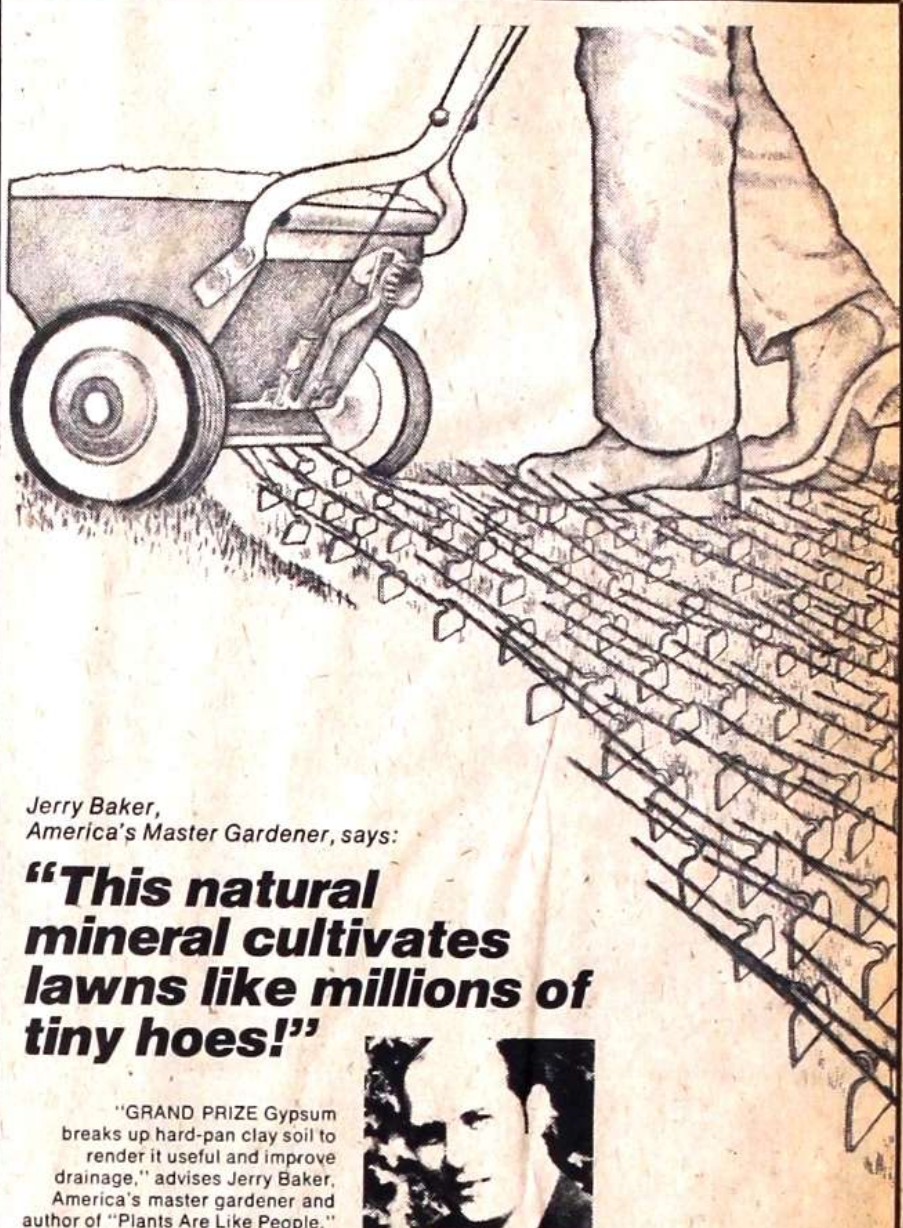

GERALD DRAHEIM, an agent of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, offers free advice on gardening through the service, he told a gathering of Westland senior citizens recently. He can be reached by writing P.O. Box 550, Wayne, or by calling 721-6550 or 721-6553.

to help the senior citizens and all citizens in the county with their gardening problems at his Wayne office. He can be reached by writing to P.O. Box 550, Wayne, 48184, or by calling 721-6550 or 721-6553 on week-days.

Jerry Baker,
America's Master Gardener, says:

"This natural mineral cultivates lawns like millions of tiny hoes!"

"GRAND PRIZE Gypsum breaks up hard-pan clay soil to render it useful and improve drainage," advises Jerry Baker, America's master gardener and author of "Plants Are Like People."

Young cabbage plants enjoy cooler weather

Young cabbage plants are frost hardy and Western Wayne County garden experts recommend that the plants be set into the ground around this time of the year.

The plants enjoy cool weather of early summer.

There are four popular vegetables which are all members of the cabbage family.

Cabbages themselves are available in three different types — green, red and savoy.

Next in popularity is broccoli, then cauliflower and finally brussels sprouts.

Like the cabbage, they all enjoy cool weather of early summer or fall. In fact, Cauliflowers and brussels sprouts are best grown as a fall crop, setting out transplants in mid-summer so that final maturity occurs during September and October.

Cabbage is the most heat tolerant of all these valuable leaf crops, and it can be grown all season by succession plantings, according to the National Garden Bureau.

Broccoli is more tolerant of heat than cauliflower, and providing good-size transplants are set out early in spring, a worthwhile crop can be expected. Another planting in mid-summer will produce an even better crop in fall.

Brussels sprouts are an extremely valuable fall and winter vegetable, producing greens until December over most of the United States at a time when store prices for fresh vegetables are highest.

Books offer hints

Gardeners who are planning to store part of their harvest may find two recent consumer information publications must reading before canning or freezing vegetables or fruits.

The first publication, "Home Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables," costs 50 cents; while the second manual, "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables," costs 35 cents. Both booklets were developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Both booklets cover the proper procedures for preserving fruits with or without sugar along with helpful hints on how to prepare the produce and avoid problems.

The booklets are available by writing Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

The U.S. uses 25 per cent of its energy for transportation, 18 per cent for heating and 16 per cent for process steam.

Nitrogen requirement varies among plants

Sweet corn, tomatoes, pepper, squash, okra and greens need more nitrogen than that recommended for a general garden plot.

The extra amount of ammonium nitrate depends on the crop and the length of the row. A 10-foot row of sweet corn will need six tablespoons of ammonium nitrate. Apply any time after the corn comes up, recommend Michigan State University horticulturists.

Apply one teaspoon of the solution per tomato plant when the fruits are one inch in diameter and repeat every three weeks throughout harvest.

Pepper plants require additional ammonium nitrate when the first fruits are one inch in diameter. Apply one teaspoon per two feet of plants.

Apply one and one-half teaspoons around each squash plant when the runners are one foot long.

Apply ammonium nitrate after the first harvest of okra. One to two tablespoons is needed for every 10-foot row.

Apply one teaspoon of the solution to every two feet of greens.

Be careful not to get any ammonium nitrate on the leaves of wet plants because it might burn them, caution the specialists. Follow label directions to insure proper applications.

League meets are next

2 survive regional track test

With the regional track meets behind them, Belleville and New Boston high school teams look ahead to the gruelling tests of league championships.

And it will be tough for both schools, after qualifying only two athletes at the regional meets.

The two Dearborn high schools - Edsel Ford and Dearborn - figure prominently in the Suburban 8 Conference title while Belleville will try to match some of the individual honors.

It is the same picture in the Huron Conference where Saturday Gary VanBuhler, who won two medals, advanced to the state finals by placing third in the low hurdle. Coach Mike Mathews' Chiefs don't stand a chance to win the over-all title, but hope to take a couple of the individual firsts.

Huron will host the conference meet tomorrow beginning at 7 p.m., while Belleville will travel to Redford Union for the Suburban 8 Conference meet next Wednesday.

MEANWHILE, Belleville had only one regional qualifier at Ypsilanti last week. He was clocked in 19.7, trailing Dearborn Heights Crestwood's Ron Hargis (19.5) and Ann Arbor Pioneer's Mike McMahon (19.4) across the finish line.

The Belleville hurdler also placed fourth in the lows. The Tigers also received a fourth-place effort from their vaulter, Bruce Ford, who cleared 12 feet, 7 inches while Block's 10:01.2 for the two-mile gave him a fifth place in that event.

New Boston Huron High's track team assured itself of a fourth place tie in Huron League dual meet standings last week with a 73-50 pasting of Flat Rock in the season finale.

The victory evened the Chiefs' record at 5-5, the same as Monroe Catholic Central, and tuned them up for Thursday's league meet at Huron. The league meet results were averaged with dual meet results to determine the ultimate league champion.

Carleton Airport led the dual meet listings and Tecumseh second and Grosse Ile third.

Huron Coach Mike Mathews feels his squad can at best end in a third-place tie with Grosse Ile.

Mike Sobodash led the defeat of Flat Rock, winning the long jump (20'5 1/4"), high jump (5'8") and low hurdles (21.4). Huron captured nine of the 15 first places and swept both hurdle events.

The winning high hurdle threesome consisted of Keith Frazier with a 16.4 timing, Rich Guffey and Brad Booth. Sobodash won the lows in 21.4 and was followed by Frazier and Guffey.

Huron then journeyed to the regional competition at Southgate Schafer where it placed 12th with three points. Ecorse won the meet with 41 points. Don Johnson of Huron qualified for the state meet June 1 with a 12'3" soaring in the pole vault.

THE STRETCH—Southpaw Gerald Memering eyes the target while on the mound for Belleville High. Memering has to carry the burden of being Belleville's only lefthanded pitcher—meaning there's nobody to fall back on.—Enterprise-Roman photo.

Sports Meridian

Prep thinclads must prove they are 'All-Area'

By TOM MOORADIAN

What has developed into one of the popular events of the prep track season is The Daily Eagle-Associated Newspapers' All-Area Track & Field Meet.

The meet, the brainchild of the Wayne Jaycees six years ago - has it been that long? - is a "winner take all" event with each first place finisher earning the right of the "All-Area" designation.

Over the years the Jaycees have dropped out, but area coaches felt that the meet had so much to offer to the athletes that it should continue.

The meet also has been an excellent curtain-drawer for the track season.

AND THERE HAS been excellent talent at these meets. Back in 1971, Belleville's Garrade Pettus captured four of the 14 events. He is presently competing for Eastern Michigan University. Other standouts of that year included Belleville's Jon Cross, Cherry Hill's Phil Seibold and Lou Hatzilas, Franklin's Ken Yuhasz, Mike Filarecki, Mike Jinnett and Jim Craig.

Most are presently enrolled in colleges and universities across the nation.

That 1972 meet also was something, do you remember? There were Dave Smith, Wayne's two-mile hero who went on to earn All-American recognition at Henry Ford Community College; his teammate Joe Keister, who, despite an injury, managed to win the 220-yard dash and is presently at EMU.

Then a 15-year-old John Glenn student, Wes Teeple, stunned his older rivals and won the pole vault competition. Teeple became the first sophomore to ever be named to an All-Area track team.

Other familiar names of the time were Andre Jacobs, Robichaud's top-notch sprinter, Darryl Gooden, Romulus' record-setting shot-putter, Lorenzo Reid, Inkster's "blue chip" hurdler, Jim Honke, Churchill's outstanding high-jumper who cleared 6 feet, 4 inches to win his gold medal. His teammate Dennis Kurtis won the mile that year.

THERE ARE MANY other stars - Wes Jones, who's still around and considered the man to beat in the area for the 100 and 220. The Dearborn Heights Robichaud senior is undefeated this year, having annexed the Spartan (Michigan State University), Albion, Ecorse Relays crowns in the 60-yard dash, the 100 and 220, respectively this year.

Steve Laut, Luke Ealey, Mark Priebe, Ed Poindexter - names that not only area fans have become to know, but sought-after athletes by major colleges across the country.

Who will be the winners of the seventh annual meet?

Well, only time will tell.

But, one thing for sure, if the past is any indication of the future, there will be stiff competition for each and every gold medal.

The plans for this year's meet still are on the drawing board. What is needed to complete them are the date and the time - the site was forced to be shifted.

ORIGINALLY SCHEDULED to be held at Livonia Franklin, we have been forced to by-pass that high school because the track's under construction.

"We would have liked to host the meet," said Bob Holmes, "But, the concrete company who has the contract to get the track into shape has had its problems, so the track won't be available."

If Franklin isn't available, Wayne Memorial is.

"We are always happy to host such talent as the All-Area meet offers," said Bill Hawley, the Zebras' head coach, "just say when."

We will. We will.

Autographs, anyone?

DETROIT - Tiger stars will whip out their pens Sunday, May 26, to sign autographs for young fans at the first Autograph Day of the 1974 season at Tiger Stadium. Eight players will oblige the youngsters at special stations in the Upper and Lower Deck concourses between 12:20 and 12:50 before the Tigers' game with the Cleveland Indians at 1:30 p.m.

Other Autograph Days will be held on a monthly basis during the season.

For the May 26 initial session.

THIS PITCH WAS TOO GOOD—A Taylor Kennedy hurler makes the mistake of grooving one down the middle to Belleville slugger Gary Adkins, who promptly connects for a

Tigers eye district title

If Kevin Bara can stay healthy, Belleville High's varsity baseball team may make a dent or two in the state Class A tournament district contests scheduled to open for the Tigers Saturday.

Belleville travels to Romulus to face the Eagles in pre-district action with the survivor advancing to the district eliminations at Belleville's diamond.

Bara has been the most consistent pitcher for the Tigers in this disappointing season which has the Tigers listed at 4-9 on the season and 1-8 overall, though his record doesn't show it. The mound ace climbed nearer the .500 mark last week (3-4) with a seven-hitter as Belleville polished off Taylor Kennedy, 4-1, in the second round of a tournament in Wyandotte.

Tiger Coach Vitold Kaminskis plans to use Bara against Romulus as Belleville seeks to better its two-game regular season split with the Eagles.

Belleville touched Kennedy for three runs in the first and one in the sixth. Bara tripled in the first run and Greg Ivan followed suit with a two-run triple. In the sixth, Bara singled and Ivan doubled him in. Ivan went 2-for-3 with a three RBI's and Bara was 2-for-3 as the Tigers' top hitters.

Kennedy tallied his lone run in the seventh. Earlier, Belleville had fallen to Suburban 8 League rival Redford Union, 5-2, on a three-hitter by Dan Bushart. RU jumped on Tiger starter Dan Mattson (0-2) early, getting two runs in the first, then one in each of the third, fourth and seventh innings. Belleville tallied once in the fifth and seventh, the initial run coming after a walk and an error and the second on a triple by Robin Hook after Joe Stillwagon singled. Redford Union totaled eight hits, six off Mattson. Don Kettlehut relieved him in the fifth and allowed two safeties.

Ex-Belleville star to play for CMU

Former Belleville High School basketball and baseball star Al Cicotte has signed a national letter-of-intent to attend Central Michigan University on a basketball grant-in-aid.

Cicotte, a 1973 Belleville graduate who captained its basketball and baseball teams and earned all-Suburban Eight League second team honors in basketball, pitched two no-hitters in baseball and was voted King of the School his senior year, spent the past season at Henry Ford Community College in Dearborn. The 6-8, 200-pounder averaged 19 points and 16 rebounds a game for Ford's cage squad last winter and earned the most valuable player designation in the Central Division of the Michigan Community and Junior College Association.

CICOTTE is the son of former professional baseball pitcher Al Cicotte Sr., whose six major league teams in five seasons included a half year with the Detroit Tigers.

The younger Cicotte, who was recruited by three Big Ten schools in addition to CMU, said he chose Central because of its style of play, the coaching staff and his desire to prepare himself for veterinary school.

Chippewa Coach Dick Parfitt feels Cicotte will fit into Central's basketball program very well.

"We feel Al is a complete ball player," he said. "He has good mobility and has done everything he needs to do to play forward. Al has come a long way since high school and should fit into our varsity program very well."

Romulus stopped by rains

Bill Cuhnan calls Saturday's state district tournament clash with Belleville "our whole season," which indicates that his Romulus diamondmen haven't had much success throughout the regular season campaign.

The Eagle coach has watched in frustration as his contingent has slipped to a 5-9 record--whenever it stops raining long enough to allow them to play. Just last week alone, Romulus was rained out of four games.

The Eagles did, however, manage to squeeze in one game with Westland John Glenn on Romulus' soggy field, but that one, too, should have been cancelled from Romulus' point of view.

Glenn's Jeff Hodgkins handcuffed the Eagles on three hits in a 3-0 Rocket victory while spoiling Romulus' junior Steve Nieman's first varsity mound start.

Nieman went four innings, giving up five hits and two runs while fanning one. He was succeeded by Rick Britz and Kurt Lenderman.

John Glenn tagged the Romulus hurlers for nine hits in scoring single runs in the second, fourth and seventh innings.

Romulus mounted a pair of threats in the sixth and seventh innings but stranded runners both times. In the seventh, the Eagles loaded the bases but were erased on a double play.

Romulus met Woodhaven Monday and Ypsilanti today, then plays Dearborn Heights Robichaud Thursday in a tuneup for Saturday's showdown with Belleville. In the season series between Romulus and Belleville, each has won once and lost once.

To baseball woes

Huron seeks a cure

If it isn't the rain it's the lack of hitting, but either way the Huron High baseball team is catching its licks this season.

The New Bostonites stood idly by last week while all three of their scheduled games were wiped out by rain or wet grounds, and will have to make up for that in the next two weeks with 8 games scheduled in 10 days--weather permitting, of course.

The Chiefs had the opportunity before the rains came to put some respectability into their lowly 1-10 record, but that, too, fizzled. Tied 4-4 with defending state Class C champion Blissfield in the seventh inning of a rain-delayed game in a tournament in Monroe, the contest finally resumed several days later with Blissfield emerging the victor, 7-4, in 12 innings.

A splurge for three unearned runs in the 12th won it for Blissfield despite the 20-strike out pitching effort of Huron's Ken DeLano.

And, like Huron's fortunes in this season, DeLano's excellent hurling was even

Ebersberger's bid at Ypsi falls short

Romulus High's 1974 varsity tennis schedule winds down this week with the final two dual matches against Ecorse and Trenton, and the Eagles hope to do considerably better in those meets than they did in last Saturday's regional tournament.

Competing against nine other Class A schools at Ypsilanti High for the right to be represented at the state meet, Romulus made several strong bids but wound up out of contention.

The Eagles tied for fifth in the regionals with Garden City East.

Ray Ebersberger was Romulus' final hope in the school's bid to send someone to the state finals, but the junior singles ace was finally eliminated in the quarterfinals. Another Romulus standout, LeAnn Silvey, couldn't survive the first round.

In doubles competition, the duo of Keith Savage and Mike Moomaw defeated a pair from Temperance-Bedford before bowing out in the second round to an Adrian twosome.

Another Romulus doubles team of Steve Sedlacek and Duane Winter won by default over Westland John Glenn, then fell to Ypsilanti.

Commissioners voice cost increases

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has directed its lawyers to intervene in opposition to multi-million-dollar rate increases sought by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. and the Detroit Edison Co.

The commissioners, meeting as the Ways and Means Committee, unanimously approved a resolution to that effect.

The resolution directs the county corporation counsel to join Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelly in opposing the rate increase requests at hearings to be held by the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC).

Both utilities submitted rate increase requests last month. Michigan Bell has asked for increases amounting to more than $111 million per year. A MPSC hearing is scheduled for May 22.

Detroit Edison has asked for rate hikes of about $93 million a year. A hearing date has not been set.

The board's resolution declares that "the County of Wayne hereby takes the position that the applicants' current rate of return under the current rate structure is fully fair and reasonable, and possibly excessive."

The resolution states that the board of commissioners is "vitaly concerned" about the impact of rate increases upon consumers and notes that the county government is an "extensive user" of electricity and phone service.

One county commissioner charged that the utility companies "already have viciously manipulated the rate payers." He said the utilities promoted "unbridled consumption" when energy seemed plentiful and then, with consumption at a record high, obtained from the MPSC permission to automatically pass on to the consumers increases in the costs of their raw materials.

OPEN HOUSE THIS WEEKEND

Move in now with Woodbury Green's

Mini-Down PLAN

What you do first.
Let's assume you can qualify and are approved for a mortgage on the condominium you want at Woodbury Green... and you can come up with a couple of hundred dollars. You can then move in right away and start making regular monthly payments of $232.50 a month.

What we do next.
We will credit each of your monthly payments* until there's enough for a down payment — as little as 5% of your purchase price at the lowest conventional mortgage rates available. Then, you take title to your condominium home, simply and easily as that. All the while you've been living in your Woodbury Green townhouse, enjoying the pool and the clubhouse and Belleville Lake and nearby Lower Huron Metro Park.

What you do now.
Come see the condominium townhouses at Woodbury Green. Check the features: 2 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, Whirlpool kitchen, central air conditioning and more, and compare the value. Then ask our sales representative to do the figuring — and find out how easily you can move in at Woodbury Green.
